HUNTING FOR EWOKS

- Synopsis: Hunting for Ewoks takes place in the near future where Donald Trump's version of America is realized; citizenship is a birthright. We follow a Latin American sheriff who is now obligated to enforce these laws on his own people. Can a sheriff who has his roots in Latin America enforce the closed border to the very immigrants that his own family used to be? Funny, brutally honest, and tragic, we journey into this America to see if we can survive as a nation of non-immigrants
- Based on true stories from an Arizona Sheriff and real-life experiences of immigrants attempting to cross the border

P.S. 357

- Synopsis: 8 students reveal their fears, hopes, and dark secrets while cloistered together in lockdown, trying to survive an active shooter outside the classroom. Unbeknownst to them, the second shooter is actually in the very room they are hiding in. The 8 students vividly live through the moments before the fatal incident as the identity of the second shooter changes every night. The play unfolds as neither the actors nor the audience will know who the shooter is until the fatal moment.
- There are 8 possible endings to the play, and all endings are adapted from real-life scenarios from real shootings that have happened in the United States.

WALKING TO AMERICA

- Synopsis: Walking to America is based on the true story of a 14-year-old boy who walked twenty-four months across four countries and over 2,400 miles to reach the American border. He endures child labor, exploitation, violence, and death squads: just a few of the horrors most immigrant children endure to come to the US illegally. Walking to America is a play about not just what the American dream means to immigrants, but what people are willing to sacrifice for a chance at freedom... and the reality of the cost.

BOUNTY
